How to store your Plywood and Panels:

Handling & Storage:

Plywood is a natural timber product that can be affected by changes in ambient weather conditions. This could cause previously flat sheets to bow. We take precautions to minimize this, however once the plywood has left our warehouse, we cannot guarantee sheets to remain flat unless fastened. This is particularly important where free standing kitchen/cabinet doors are concerned. All storage must be in a flat position with adequate face protection.

Exposure to moisture and direct light:

Direct or indirect light will affect the appearance and the functionality of our plywood and panel products. A change in color and appearance due to these factors is a natural characteristic and is not a reason for return. The effect of excessive moisture and damp or humid conditions can change the appearance or structure of plywood or panels, this is also not a reason for return.

Exterior Conditions:

Most plywood and panels excluding Plymasters Euro Grip deck and H3.2 Treated ply do not carry guarantees for NZ exterior weather conditions. If Marine ply is used in exterior situations, it is the client's responsibility to provide adequate surface and edge protection to ensure ultimate durability in an external environment.
